PreferredRx Preferred Drug List

What is the PreferredRx preferred drug list?

The PreferredRx preferred drug list is a formulary that lists medications that are covered by your health plan. The list is reviewed by a team of clinical experts every three months for new medications, safety alerts and other developments.

Who decides what is on it?

The HealthPartners Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee (P&T) manages this list. This team of clinical experts is focused on safety, effectiveness and affordability. Visit healthpartners.com for more information on what determines the medications on the preferred drug lists.

How do I use it?

The medications on the PreferredRx preferred drug list are listed in alphabetical order by medication name. Some medications are capitalized and others are lowercased italics to help you determine which medications are brand and which are generic. Generic medications are just as safe and effective as brand medications, but cost you less. Use this key to help:

BRAND – capitalized (ex. ADVAIR HFA)
generic – lowercased (ex. citalopram)

What do the abbreviations in the “More details” column mean?

This column provides special information about the medication you are searching for. The abbreviations may indicate a special program, money-saving opportunity or, in some cases, rules for the medication. Use this key to help you navigate the PreferredRx preferred drug list. To learn more about these details, turn to page three:

PA = Prior Authorization Required

ST = Step Therapy Required

AE = Age Edit

GE = Gender Edit

MD = Physician Edit

QL = Quantity Limit

NF = Non-Formulary

HT = Half Tablet

SC = Smoking Cessation

TD = Trial Drug Program

WL = Weight Loss

SP = Specialty Drugs

Why do some drugs require prior authorization (PA)?

Even though this medication is on the formulary, it needs to meet the HealthPartners prior approval criteria in order for it to be covered by your pharmacy benefits. Your doctor will request approval for you. The approval decision is usually made the same day the request is submitted. These drugs are noted on the preferred drug list with a “PA” after their names.

PreferredRx Preferred Drug List

What is Step Therapy (ST)?

Even though this medication is on the formulary, you will need to try one or more alternative medications on the formulary before this drug will be covered by your pharmacy benefits. If you have not tried the other medication(s) first, this medication will require prior approval in order to be covered by your highest pharmacy benefit. Your doctor will request approval for you. The approval decision is usually made the same day the request is submitted. Step Therapy medications are noted on the preferred drug list with an “ST” after their names.

What is Age Edit (AE)?

This medication is only covered if you are within a specific age range. If you are not in the approved age range, you will need to have prior approval for this medication to be covered by your pharmacy benefits. Your doctor will request approval for you. The approval decision is usually made the same day the request is submitted. Age edit medications are noted on the preferred drug list with an “AE” after their names.

What is Physician Edit (MD)?

This medication is covered only when prescribed to you by doctors specializing in certain types of care. If the medication is prescribed by any other doctor, that doctor will need to request approval for you in order for it to be covered by your pharmacy benefits. The approval decision is usually made the same day the request is submitted. Physician edit medications are noted on the preferred drug list with an “MD” after their names.

What is Gender Edit (GE)?

This medication is covered for males or females only. If you are not in the approved gender group for this medication, you will need to have prior approval to be covered by your pharmacy benefits. Your doctor will request approval for you. The approval decision is usually made the same day the request is submitted. Gender edit medications are noted on the preferred drug list with a “GE” after their names.

What is Half Tablet (HT)?

This medication is eligible for the Half-Tablet Advantage Program. With this program, you receive a higher-strength medication to split in half for your prescribed dose. For example: You pay one copay or coinsurance for 30 tablets that can be split into a 60-day supply of your medication. You may not even need a new prescription. When you’re ready for a refill, just tell your pharmacist that you’d like to use the Half-Tablet Advantage Program. Your pharmacist may be able to adjust the medication strength and directions, and then dispense a higher strength dose for you to split in half. Half Tablet medications are noted on the preferred drug list with an “HT” after their names.

What is Smoking Cessation (SC)?

This type of medication may have limits on the amount you receive or may not be covered under all contracts. Log on to your secure healthpartners.com account and click “Current Benefits” on the Medical Plan Services tab to check your benefits. Smoking Cessation medications are noted on the preferred drug list with an “SC” after their names.

What is Trial Drug Program (TD)?

The trial drug program applies to new prescriptions for certain medications that may not be well tolerated due to side effects, are high cost and/or high potential for waste. Your first fill of a trial drug may be limited to less than a month supply. If the drug is well tolerated and effective, you will receive the remainder of your first month supply. If a flat dollar copay applies to the drug, you will pay no more than one copay for each one month supply. Trial drugs are noted on the the preferred drug list with a “TD” after their names.

What is Weight Loss (WL)?

This type of medication may have limits on the amount you receive or may not be covered under all contracts. Log on to your secure healthpartners.com account and click “Current Benefits” on the Medical Plan Services tab to check your benefits. Weight Loss medications are noted on the preferred drug list with a “WL” after their names.
